writing skill and analytical ability to articulate the argument, identify the challenges, prospects and solutions to the problems concerning the subject matter/ topic of the assignment.

N.B. For statement of cases separate sheet may be used.

- B. Evaluation of Module-2: The participant will be divided in groups and will be assigned a case problem based on the Supreme Court's decision/s in dealing with such cases. Each Group is required to resolve the problem through online group study for discussing the case and related issues. Time limit for presenting the case problem for each group is 20 minutes only. Participants are assessed on the basis of the content as well as their mode and manner of deliberations.
- C. Evaluation of Module-3: Virtual attendance in every session and event of the training is a must for each participant. Participant is required to attend the sessions and events timely and maintain highest level of punctuality and discipline. Participants are evaluated in this module through timely attendance in the sessions, dress, etiquette and manner and overall coordination and assistance in maintaining rules of the training program.
- D. Evaluation of Module-4: The Institute offers preliminary knowledge and basic skill on composing, printing, power point presentation, e-mail communication and internet surfing. For the evaluation of this module, participants are required to appear in a Computer Literacy and e-Communication Practical Examination where beside some question/answer they would compose a paragraph or an operative part of a judgment in English/Bangla and to prepare a power point slide of the same and send those through email.
